But as a legistator, he never seeking notoriety, of thousands of dollars, evaded as much possible the columns of the daily press. His colleagues will tell you that he is one of the "live wires" of the House, whose ability is recognized by both friend and foe.

He showed his fighting qualities in his first session 1902. He refused to introduce the present school law and fought it in committee to defeat. He aided in the passage of the Child Labor Law which has become so popular among all concerned; He helped to establish the State Fair which has become a source of revenue to the state; He voted for the First Anti Lobby Bill ever introduced; helped to establish the Department of Labor and Statistics which have brought about most amicable relations between capitol and labor; supported with great zeal the Children's Home Society which has sought and furnished homes for thousands of homeless waifs. With the death of Wm. Goebel the Chinn Book Bill died; in the session of 1902 a bitter struggle began for cheap school books. The Book Lobby was then at its best; but after many stormy meetings, finally at all night ses-

people of Kentucky hundreds of

Later in his three races before the House Caucus he put to rout all opposition defeating some of the most popular men in the state with votes to spare.

In the last session his fight for the common schools will be attested by all who came in contact with the General Assembly. He stood by the people on the Income Tax Amendment and was one of Ollie James' most trusted lieutenants at Frankfort, see that Kentucky sent her affirmative vote to Washington. The temperance people found true on every roll call.

The department on public Health would be powerless to day, to cope with the scourge of diseases that have been rampant in the state, if it had not been for the appropriation that was secured by his effort. It has already been returned ten fold.

His fight for Interest bearing Warrants instead of Bond issues or tax raise has resulted in great saving to the tax payer, and claim holder who no longer must shave his claim.

He stood against place making and useless "salary grabs" on every roll call.

Mr. Letterlee., a veteran of 20 years, resigned his chairmanship on enrollments on account of ill health. The Speaker after going carefully over the field named Mr. Pegue to that responsible position of the custody and comparison of all bills passed. So well was this work done that there was not a hitch or a bill

To The Voters of Crittenden

I placing my claims before you again asking your support for a seat in the lower house of the next General Assembly of Kentucky, I first desire to thank you for your past support. I appreciate the nomination the more because it came to me unsolicited, and as a mark of confidence and loyality from the Splendid Democracy of Livingston County. I appreciate, also, the kind promises of support from scores of Republicans and Independents, who feel that I accomplished last session all that could be expected of any one handicapped by a Senate so peculiarly organized and controlled by a small coterie of the membership. If elected, I shall stand for
